

Japanese Teaching Assistant Alternate Pool

The Department of Asian Languages and Literature is searching for applicants to join the alternate pool for Japanese language Teaching Assistants, in case any of our current teaching assistants must leave their positions for any reason. Alternates are not guaranteed a position, but will be notified if they qualify for alternate status.

This search is for academic year 2022-2023 only. Students who applied for this position earlier this year may re-apply.

General Duties/Description:

Job duties include, but are not limited to, teaching Japanese language classes in Japanese, preparing/grading tests, homework, and assignments, keeping student records, participating in TA meetings, attending course lectures, and collaborating with the supervisor and other TAs.

Requirements:

Graduate students accepted by or enrolled in the University of Washington are eligible to apply. Previous teaching experience is a plus. Strong Japanese language skills are required. TA positions require strong organizational and communication skills and the ability to work well both individually and as part of a team.

By the time of appointment, non-native English-speaking applicants will have to satisfy the English speaking proficiency requirements found in Graduate School Memo 15.

Salary:

Salary and benefits are competitive. Salary is commensurate with academic standing, qualifications, and experience. TAs receive a tuition waiver, salary, and benefits.

How to Apply:

If you have not applied for this position this year, the application is available at <https://asian.washington.edu/how-apply>. Follow the Submission Instructions and submit the complete application (Google Form) online. Supporting documents (Home Department Statement of Support, Letter of Recommendation) should be submitted directly by the department/recommender via email to the Academic Counselor, Kirk L. Van Scoyoc, at asianadv@uw.edu.

If you have already applied earlier this year, you do not have to submit another application. Notify Kirk via email that you'd like to re-apply and submit any new supporting documents or changes directly to him at asianadv@uw.edu.

The deadline for submission of applications and supporting documents is May 10, 2022.
